of State Delegations Organization To-day.

CINCINNATI, June 21, 1880.

was a busy day with delegates, visitors agers and hangers on. A few leading men attended church, many took in our beautiful suburbs and hill-tops, and others all through the heat of the day remained at their hotels, watching the new arrivals and discussing the situation. The day's work brought but few changes, matters standing as they did Saturday night with the single exception of the fact that Tilden is out of the race by the final promulgation of his letter of withdrawal. The letter is the same as described by a Western member of the National Committee in the Stan of Saturday 14st. PUSHING THE PAYNE BOOM.

gates from New York, Connect ut and New Jersey, was held yesterday afternoon, and it was agreed in view of the retirement of Mr. Tilden, three States should unite and present the name of Henry B. Payne, of Ohio, as the choice of these States, which it is conceded the Democratic eandidate must carry to insure success. Connecticut, at first, wavered in favor o' English, her own favorite son, but finally concluded that Payne would meet the case. All of the New York delegation was not present, but the indications are that Payne will receive the support of New York with "substantial unanimity.

Indiana, as one of the doubtful States, was inwited to participate, but declined, answering that he had already decided that Hendricks was the man with whom to achieve success, and returned the compilment by inviting New York, New Jersey and Connecticut to fall in with the Hendricks

If the candidacy of Payne receives the suppor in New York, Connecticut and New Jersey that seems now assured, his nomination is by far the most probable. Most of the Southern leaders, asked who they want nominated, answer that they favor any man who can carry the doubt Rbw York, New Jersey and Connectiont the three States most frequently mentioned as those which must be carried, show their choice to be Payne, the large proportion just referred to will decide that he is the man they are looking for, and will rally to his standard. The class of delegates who have no choice, except the man that can carry the otful States, is largely in favor of Seymour, and the Payne men hope to inherit much of Sey-mour's strength, as well as that of Tilden's. UNFOUNDED SEYMOUR RUMORS.

Yesterday there was a considerable revival of talk of Seymour's candidacy. The theory is that Beymour will not insist on a declination after he put forward this theory essert that Seymour's real reason for declining was that, on account of former political and personal relations, he would not antagonize Tilden, but that this objection ng withdrawn by Tilden being out of the race, his friends, who are anxious to have him run, will be able to persuade him to make the race. There is probably nothing in all this talk, one or two more letters having just been received from Mr. Seymour, making his declination, if possible, still more emphatic. Last evening about 5 o'clock the Tammany delegation arrived at the C., H. & D. Railroad depot. They came in a special train of sixteen cars, and what is said of filden's lefters.

The Tilden letter provokes comment according to the standpoint from which it is seen. Anti-Tilden men say he is con lined that the opposition to him has grown so great that he did not dare risk an effort at nomination; that he would have been overwhelmingly defeated in the Convention, and that if nominated he would have lost New York by a big majority. On the other hand, his friends insist that the declination is based entirely on the condition of Mr. Tilden's health, and that the determination not to be a candidate is no new one: that he has allowed his name to remain in the contest up to this time entirely at the solicitation of his friends.

These men say Tilden never has, and does not now, doubt his ability to be both nominated and elected if he had worked to that end. They say he fully believes he could carry New York by 30,000 majority. The knowing Tilden men insist that the determination not to run was reacted by him I mg previous to the New York State Convention, and that a letter similar to the one just promulgated was prepared at that time to be there read, but that Tilden was induced by his f lends to withhold it, as its publicity at that time would have weakened them in the contest for party supremacy in the State.

Whereas, This delegation has learned that efforts have been and are being made to direct public attention from the fact that the Democracy of Indiana is a unit for Thomas A. Hendricks; and Whereas, The name of Senator McDonald has been and still is being used in connection with that nomination, without any agency on his part and against his reiterated protest, he being the unqualified friend and advocate of Mr. Hendricks for the high position for which the Democracy of Indiana has unanimously designated him.

Therefore, Be it Resolved. That we, the delegates for Indiana to the National Convention, in accordance with the unanimous instructions of the Democratic State Convention of Indiana, do hereby emphatically declare that we will adhere to and stand by Mr. Hendricks as our candidate for President, and will steadfastly reject any and all suggestions or proposals as to the use of the name of any other citizen of Indiana for that office. And further, that we will steadfastly reject any suggestion or proposal for the use of the name of any other citizen of Indiana for that office.
